A COURSE IN MIRACLES

*This is a required course.
Only the time you take it is voluntary.
Free will does not mean that you can establish the curriculum.
It means only that you can elect what you want to take at a given time.*

*This course does not aim at teaching the meaning of love...
for that is beyond what can be taught.
It does aim, however, at removing the blocks to the awareness of love's presence, which is your natural inheritance.*

*The opposite of love is fear...
But what is all-encompassing can have no opposite.
Nothing real can be threatened.
Nothing unreal exists.
Herein lies the peace of God.*

Why would you not perceive it as release from suffering to learn that you are free? Why would you not acclaim the truth instead of looking on it as an enemy? Why does an easy path, so clearly marked it is impossible to lose the way, seem thorny, rough and far too difficult for you to follow? Is it not because you see it as a road to hell instead of looking on it as a simple way, without a sacrifice or any loss, to find yourself in Heaven and in God? Listen. Until you realize you give up nothing, until you understand there is no loss, you will have some regrets about the way that you have chosen. And you will not see the many gains your choice has offered you. Yet though you do not see them, they are still there. Their cause has been effected, and they must be present where their cause has entered in.

Here's why.

You have accepted healing's cause, and so it must be you are healed. And being healed, the power to heal must also now be yours. The miracle is not a separate thing that happens suddenly, as an effect without a cause. Nor is it, in itself, a cause. But where its cause is must it be. Now is it caused, though not as yet perceived. And its effects are there, though not yet seen. Look inward now, and you will not behold a reason for regret, but cause indeed for glad rejoicing and for hope and for peace.

So we're glad you stayed with us and we hope to present to you within the entirety of the illusionary idea of a formulation of a new light dream, within a factoring of what appears to be this little planet in a little idea of a single sun – ok? – represented by billions of suns contained within billions of galaxies, is not somehow not a part of the entirety of your own self-identity that appears to be a formulation of the illusion in which you appear to dream. And we're sharing together – this is our Course In Miracles, by the resurrected mind of Jesus, in which we intend, through my illumination of mind in a new dream that we're now dreaming together, that in the simple truth of the matter we can decide at any moment to simply dream our way out of here. But in the admission of that capacity will have to be the certainty that contained within us is an idea of ourself in formulation of Eternal Life that in a literal sense is not contained within our body.

What will occur within the dream of death to your body formulation? It can not not represent anymore or less than you want it to be within your own dream. The practice of the healing that you're about to demonstrate to me in this last – now we're going to fifty-five minutes – is suddenly going to be a provision for you within your own dream, to begin, initially, to recognize each other. Now, we express our recognition of each other, very simply by falling in love within our own body form. And while we love each other in the moment in which we have glimpses of the entirety of a single moment in time, it immediately reduces itself to a notation of memory of time of body formulation that's going to give you an aging process in which you proceed to whither and to get old and to die.

I'm about to perform a miracle of light conversion of your mind, with no regard to what you think you are in that body form. Trust me with this. Any ideas you have in memory about yourself concerning your body can be and will be a very important idea about what you are within the memory pattern of your body. I'm demonstrating – the Old Man they call me – I'm demonstrating to you a return into this sequence of time to increase the frequency of the transformation of the illusion of your body formulation. Now, stop looking for it out in other body formulation that you have already objectified within your own mind, and as a matter of fact perhaps have found some solutions to your problem in your retention of the idea of your capacity to terminate yourself, very simply because you will not be successful at it. You remember this lesson: There is no death. You could formulate yourself for the next fourteen thousand years in the association of your body formulation. All you could possibly be doing is repeating within your own dream of death a determination to remember, within the specie homo sapien, the idea of the beginning of a formulation of body that continues to represent itself in an illumination of a transition of light from dark form, from the idea of closure within the galactic association, to a very rapid conversion of light that extends out into the universe. So stop trying to die on me. Listen.

In this world, there appears to be a state that is life's opposite. You call it death. Yet we have learned that the idea of death takes many forms. It is the one idea which underlies all feelings that are not supremely happy. It is the alarm to which you give response of any kind that is not perfect joy. Look. [All] sorrow, loss, anxiety and suffering and pain, even a little sigh of weariness, a slight discomfort [laughing out loud] are an acknowledgement of death. And thus you deny that you are eternal in everything that you do.

And conceptually, when I look at you, the momentary laying down of your defenses were true expressions of love, since our love comes from the Universal Mind. So that your determination to remain emotionally involved within the necessity of suffering within your body association – are you going to listen? – will be the way that you will be until you decide to change your mind about the possibility that the story that you have told yourself, in the idea that you have separated yourself from Eternal Life, could possibly be true.

Beginning – now we're down to a very short increasing idea that we can close the gap. Remember when we began these; this is important: There appears to be a gap between us. Within the illusion of light, we recognize a continuing re-configuration of our own mind that has given us a self-identity. Yet we continue to search within a fabric of limitation of light, in a fundamental acknowledgment that there are extensions of light a billion times more powerful than this, and moments of darkness so intense that their power exceeds anything imaginable within our own limitation. Yet somehow, within the dream, we protect ourself. Now, you have made a decision with me, and you are watching these proceedings within your own mind, that you will no longer attempt to foster body association. Now, at that moment you still may believe that the organization of your body-identity in correspondence with other body forms is necessary.

Why would I be concerned about that? Any single instant that you close the gap, the moment you release your defense of yourself, as a matter of fact in that holy instant, the entirety of the light association, which was in and only in your own mind, becomes the totality of the part of what you are.

Practice: Offer me that light. Thank you. Offer me a better reflection. Oh, it turned into body identity. Oh, it turned into the idea that our bodies are separate. Of course. Yet, it has now become an indelible part of how we look at ourself within our own association of a continuum of time, because life is going to be life no matter what you do. You are going to be eternal and, if you'd like to express it, eternally happy, because any idea of eternity could not not include the joy and peace that you have found within what appeared to be our separate associations of hate and pain and death. There's four more sentences in the idea that we're sharing a single life. Listen.

You think that death is of the body. Yet it is but an idea, it's an idea irrelevant to what is seen as physical. Why? Look. A thought is in the mind. It can then be applied as mind directs it. But its origin is where it must be changed, if change occurs. Very simply because ideas leave not their source. Which is the entire emphasis we have placed on the necessity for your own conversion. It is the reason you can heal. It is the cause of healing. It is why you cannot die. Its truth establishes you as one with God.

And we're going to practice it for just a moment. Ok? We're going to practice the very fundamental conceptual admission that ideas you have concerning yourself in your body formulation cannot leave the source of the idea you have about yourself in formulations of body identity, in a particular sense, any more than the ideas God, everything in the universe, has about you can leave His Source. In it's simplest formulation we're expressing our certainty to power of singular mind, the singleness of you within your own illusion. Now, very important in the mind training: the admission of the inclusiveness within the formulation of ideas, pertaining to the stories we tell ourself within our own human condition, actually at any single moment can not not contain all of the ideas of a thought process of an instant of conversion to its entirety from space/time. The problem you have is, you represent the idea – look with me now; this is a dream – of the limitation you have imposed on yourself as a body identity, which you intend to act out in a procedure of body formulation in which you intend to share with me separate bodies, so – I'm looking right at you – so you can get old and sick and die, and I can get old and sick and die, and that somehow I can outlive you as a body formulation and you'll be dead. What does that mean, dead? If life is eternal, the expression of the idea of death could not not be a form of what you believe is termination. Now, within the fabric of the idea of your conceptual association, we handle and employ the term 'asleep'. We employ the term that it was possible for you at an instant of what appears to be separation, live within a sequence of a dream in which just for that moment you were separate from reality, and we are now passing in our awakening process to a new dream, and what will be included in that new dream? The perfection of our association in the love we're sharing for each other. What a beautiful healing of your body that was. What did the perfect healing of your body actually have to do with your body formulation? Absolutely nothing. It was nothing but a reconfiguration within your dream sequence of what you want to see within the correspondences of our mind.

Very rapidly now we will be journeying what you used to term 'faster than the speed of light.' Can you share this with me? Within the time cycle of the illusion of our separation of bodies at a hundred and eighty six thousand miles a second, which is the speed of light, there is no possibility we can get a true reflection of our separation, and since we can't get a true reflection, we begin to construct stories about ourselves in association of our belief that we have found correspondence somewhere within a time cycle. Now I am present in your memory. Now, first of all I'm going to give you the assurance that [while] you are not a body in the true illusion that you manifest yourself, simply because you'd recognize yourself and disappear. Since you believe you ARE a body, we offer to each other the energy of the power of our mind – this is called A Course In Miracles – to instantaneously experience [of] a conversion of the illusion of our body formulation. Now, I'm looking at you with the certainty that your idea that you are that thirty-eight year old, very attractive young lady out there, attempting to correspond with a seventy-seven year old body formulation of our apparent duplicity of illusions of separation, is nothing but the fundamental admission that within parallel universal associations somewhere within the fabric of the realization of a universe that has extended for fourteen thousand million years – stand by – you're going to recognize yourself. Now, as we just confirmed for you, in your observation, there isn't anything outside yourself.

There it was. There it is. There it is. Who did I recognize? Myself. So the joy I'm expressing within the power of my capacity to change my light and mind in the reflection within my own dream are what we are discovering together. Dream a little dream with me now, of the certainty of what you are, and this gap that has sustained you for this very little forty thousand years will collapse in an instant – look with me – because you're at a time and place, within the dream of memory of yourself, in this beautiful Course In Miracle training of a re-association of your body formulation that will allow you at any single instant to begin to laugh at the idea that you were confined, at the speed of light, to a distance of fourteen thousand million years that eventually would lead you to nothing. By shortening the gap between your idea of body formulation, you are having increasing experiences of joy – say to me: self-recognition. The only possibility within all of the idea of life is the simple certainty that, if you believe that you are organized in space/time – separation – the only one that you could possibly meet out there is yourself, and you've been searching for yourself for a very long time, because within your capacity to remain within the enclosure of the idea of the illusion can not not be the idea – are you listening? – that you found the illusion in space/time.

Now you've run into me. Look with me. The solution of Eternal Life is not in space/time. It's not here. Why are you going to journey out again into the nothingness of your correspondence with yourself, when I've just told you that you're going to meet yourself? So many of you, in this formulation of the concepts of your body – and I'm speaking as a Master Teacher here, who has body remembrances of being here during this last cycle of events, and I watch you suffer pain and loneliness and death, in the insistence that it's necessary for you to protect yourself from something that appears to out there within the idea that you have about yourself, and it's simply not true.

This is called now in our practice here, and our time is progressing very rapidly, say to me: a dream of love. Now, notice I didn't exclude from you your memories about yourself. I didn't exclude anything from your memories about yourself, very simply nothing can be excluded from memories about yourself, but the intensity of the passion of the joy that you're feeling in self-recognition – do you hear me? – is what life is. Remember, there IS no death. There is no containment of the body in you, but the simple recognition in your mind that the story about bodies, as being separate, can not not contain moments of self-recognition that you then apparently loose in the continuing idea you can be separate from your loved one, when in fact your loved one is you. Shall we practice that together? Look. Here is the idea of a light reflection of your mind that contains the power of yourself to recognize yourself. Nice. Thank you. Now, We're on the satellite, broadcasting, and suddenly some, some – this is true conceptually – some body forms apparently are able to recognize themselves in brighter associations with others. I have no concern about that at all, very simply because any increase in frequency of association of the inevitability of your perfection, there is no compromise in my certainty that at any moment, within the illusion that somehow the actual separation could have been sustained, is absurd, because space/time is over. But the direction you've been given from me is to increase the self-identity within the dream of death that we are now sharing and can be shared with anyone within the illusion of the possibility of objectivity by the simple need to love one each other in the moment of how we describe ourself within our own time cycle. So, we're memories of each other in love, because love is what our memories are.

I'll be back in a moment. God goes with us wherever we go in our body formulation of separation, very simply because God is the mind with which we are thinking, and since we think with a single mind, we think from a single source of reality and we merge together in a gap that previously represented the idea that we were separate in body. Let's say it together: God bless us, each and everyone.

“The Awakening” The Closing of The Gap

EPISODE 2

WITH MASTER TEACHER

I'm back with you in the transformation of the illusion, through a forgiving dream and the idea that everyone you're meeting within your idea of space/time is actually offering you the entirety of the solution – I'm looking right at you – within all of the memories that you have about yourself. Look. I can't change the memories you have about yourself in your dream of death, but I can offer you a forgiving dream in the idea that you no longer share the conflict of pain that you're experiencing in your dream of death and I'm going to show it to you just in a few passages from the idea of a forgiving dream. Listen.

We use the term 'idols' as the idea of separate figures. A slave of idols is a willing slave. For willing he must be to let himself bow down in worship to what has no life, and seek for power in the powerless. What happened to the holy Son of God that this should be his wish; to let himself fall lower than the stones upon the ground, and look to idols that they raise him up? Hear, then, your story in the dream you made, and ask yourself if it is not the truth that you believe that it is not a dream.

Look.

A dream of judgment came into the mind that God created perfect as Himself. And in that dream was Heaven changed to hell, and God made enemy unto His Son. How can God's Son awaken from the dream? It is a dream of judgment. So must he judge not, and from that he will waken. For the dream will seem to last while he is part of it. Judge not, for he who judges will have need of idols, which will hold the judgment off from resting on himself. That's why the notation of the importance of 'Judge not.' Look.

All figures in the dream are idols, made to save you from the dream. Yet they are part of what they have been made to save you FROM. Thus does an idol keep the dream alive and terrible, for who could wish for one unless he were in terror and despair? And this the idol represents, and so its worship is the worship of despair and of terror, and the dream from which they come. Look. Judgment is an injustice to God's Son, and it IS justice that who judges him will not escape the penalty he laid upon himself within the dream he made. Did you hear that?

There can be no salvation in the dream as you are dreaming it. Can you hear this? For idols must be part of it, to save you from what you believe you have accomplished, and have done to make you sinful and put out the light within you. Listen. Little child, the light is there. You do but dream, and idols are the toys you dream you play with. Who has need of toys but children? They pretend they rule the world, and give their toys the power to move about, and to talk and to think and to feel and to speak for them. Yet everything their toys appear to do is in the minds of those who play with them. But they are eager to forget that they made up the dream in which their toys are real, not recognizing their wishes are their own.

And I'm back with you for a moment to try to show you that we're dreaming together in the idea that we have constructed stories about ourself in formulation in which we can share dreams. Can you hear this with me? There is no question I'm in your dream perspective. There's also no question that we have found dreams of happiness in our association with each other, and our brothers, and our families, and our children, and everything that we do within the illusion, but also always contained within the illusion is someone that we don't intend to share the newfound freedom that we have within our own mind. Are you listening to me? And so, although you apparently have subtracted the nightmare of the illusion of dreaming from your own mind, within a sequence of time the nightmare is still waiting out there within your own mind. So you protect yourself from the idea of pain and death, and attend to find love in the exclusion of loneliness and pain, which is impossible in it's most fundamental sense because the mind of you is what love is. Say to me: Sometimes my nightmare really comes after me. Come on, I'm going to heal you from that. If you don't defend yourself from that nightmare, it will be included in within your own mind and the sharing of the idea that all the formulations of your mind in the dream can change – are you ready? – instantly in your idea about yourself within that dream.

Now, let's practice, and I'm in your dream through this Course In Miracles, through the idea that you're standing in this space/time location, in the restriction you impose upon yourself for fear that somebody else's figure, out there in your nightmare, is going to attack you. Are you listening? He IS going to attack you, because you have protected yourself within the idea of objective separate associations and can't see, very simply, that you're the dreamer of the dream, and that the dream that I am offering you now – we call this the 'healing dream' – is the passing of the dream of those who previously in space/time attack and defended themselves and brought about their own termination in their need to fear which was nothing but a momentary dream within your mind. Listen.

Nightmares are childish dreams. The toys have turned against the child who thought he made them real. Yet can a dream attack? Or can a toy grow large and dangerous and fierce and wild? This does the child believe, because he fears his thoughts and gives them to the toys instead. And their reality becomes his own, because they seem to save him from his thoughts. Yet do they keep his thoughts alive and real, but seen outside himself, where they can turn against him for his treachery to them. He thinks he needs them that he may escape his thoughts, because he thinks the thoughts are real. And so he makes of anything a toy, to make his world remain outside himself, and play that he is but a part of it.

Look with me.

There is a time when childhood should be passed and gone forever. Seek not to retain the toys of children. Put them all away, for you have need of them no more. The dream of judgment is a childish game, in which the child becomes the father, powerful, but with the little wisdom of a child. What hurts him is destroyed; what helps him, blessed. Except he judges this as does a child, who does not know what hurts and what is real [will heal]. And bad things seem to happen, and he is afraid of all the chaos in a world he thinks is governed by the laws he made. Look. Yet is the real world unaffected by the world he thinks is real. Nor have its laws been changed because he does not understand them.

So we're coming around again, quantum teleportator. You've been in an illusion of the idea of a dream of self-containment, which is in its most fundamental sense what the entirety of life-existence is. You've organized it in the idea of separate dreams where some dreamers, which appear to be separate from you, have offered solution that have indeed increased the idea of the possibility – say to me: communication – of the possibility that we could find, in what appears to be our separate dreams, moments of communication, and as the intensity of our individual need to communicate increases we take on aspects and degrees of intervals of objective thought patterns we have about ourself that still remain the idea of toys and of dreams. The idea of the speed of light, the toys we use to journey out into the universe, are simply reflections of vehicles of shared separation within the idea that instantaneous communication is not available to us within our own dream.

There are many wonderful stories that I have told you outside of this parameter of this little earth in which you live, where journeys out in the universe have returned with us into the idolization that still represents you as a human being. Some of them you have welcomed joyously and called them 'travelers from outside this frame.' Others you have been afraid of. But each time there has been an organization of yourself, as a human being, with a wish and need for the solution, you have increased the intensity that the solution to the journey of the dream, in which you find yourself, must be somewhere there. Now perhaps you're going to struggle with me again, are you? Here. I'll offer you a solution in its entirety within a new dream that you can dream. Look. Will it be the same dream as you're dreaming? No, it'll be an entire different dream, but watch me now. The inclusion of the possibility of dreaming within a fabric of shortening the distance of your objectivity, if you'll allow it to be true with me and I'm going to do it, will allow you in the idea of quantum participation – now I'm speaking of both space AND time – to recognize somewhere within your fabric of the idea of body formulation, which by your historic reference is a thousand years old, or two thousand years old, or five, or a thousand years from now – look, all I'm asking you to do is understand that the presence within your own association of memory – are you going to hear this with me? – HAS NO LINK OF MEMORY TO THE PAST. It isn't that you can't remember Julius Caesar. It is simply that Julius Caesar cannot mean more to you, or anyone who you happen to think of within that perspective – you know, "Ego amo te", meaning "I love you very much;" that's how I knew I was Julius Caesar. But notice that my connection with Julius Caesar was not particularly concerned about "Et tu Brute," than "Die Caesar," but rather an expression of love, but you listen: the containment of the idea of ideas of nightmares that we have in our own mind, are actually within the containment of ourself in which we attempt to share in body form the idea of the limitations in time we impose upon ourself not to see the availability, not only of a single dream, which would obviously be a moment before time began and after it ended, but the sharing of the dream, through the extension of love, which releases our necessity to defend ourself from what is over and gone – look with me – because, if we do, we can not not project it into the future of our mind and believe that something that is already over and gone can be observed in a future association about ourself and our correspondence.

Life is eternal and we're sharing that life together, because there is one life and that we're sharing with God. The particulars in which you are now observing me, in the mind training of our Course In Miracles, have systematically brought yourself to a point where you are now actively rejecting death. Say to me: I am actively rejecting death. Yes. Now, within any idea you have about yourself, whether it be past or future, you are limiting yourself to body form within the illusion that makes you believe that you are indeed that body – ready? – or you're that body. Now, what I'm offering you, as what you call the 'Master Teacher', or now the role that you're about to assume, is that when you decided to appear outside the fabric of the limitation of the idea of the containment of your galactic association, you immediately began to perform acts of recognition of the mission that you have – ready? – or why in hell would you be here? This is the finality to what I'm really offering you: You've been searching for love, you've been searching for truth, you've searching for happiness, you're now discovering that it's surrounding you, and in the surrounding of you, the journey that you have used to employ ideas about yourself will be passed away, because they are passed away, and your dream of Eternal Life is now upon you.

There is such a beautiful description in our Teachers Manual. I'm going to read you just a little quick idea about where you come in time, very simply because this is journeys end. Where did you find yourself? Right where you started. And though you went out into the world and performed all these acts of association, finally, within your own dream, you are recognizing yourself, and I am in your dream, and we will recognize ourselves in the moment that remains in our certainty that all of this will now be passed away. Listen.

Forget not once this journey is begun the end is certain. Doubt along the way will come and it will go and it will come again. Yet is the ending sure. No one can fail to do what God appointed him to do. When you forget, remember that you walk with Him and with His Word upon your heart. Who could despair when Hope like this is his? Illusions of despair may seem to come, but learn how not to be deceived by them. Behind each one there is reality and there is God. Why would you wait for this and trade it for illusions, when His Love is but an instant farther on the road where all illusions end? The end is sure and guaranteed by God. Who stands before a lifeless image when a step away the Holy of the Holies opens up an ancient door that leads beyond the world?

You are a stranger here. But you belong to Him Who loves you as He loves Himself. Ask but my help to roll the stone away, and it is done according to His Will. We have begun the journey. Long ago the end was written in the stars and set into the Heavens with a shining Ray that held it safe within eternity and through all time as well. And holds it still; unchanged, unchanging and unchangeable.

Be not afraid. We only start again an ancient journey long ago begun that but seems new. We have begun again upon a road we travelled on before and lost our way a little while. And now we try again. Listen. Our new beginning has the certainty the journey lacked till now. Look up and see His Word among the stars, where He has set your name along with His. Look up and find your certain destiny the world would hide but God would have you see.

Let us wait here in silence, and kneel down an instant in our gratitude to Him Who called to us and helped us hear His Call. And then let us arise and go in faith along the way to Him. Now we are sure we do not walk alone. For God is here, and with Him all our brothers. Now we know that we will never lose the way again. The song begins again which had been stopped only an instant, though it seems to be unsung forever. What is here begun will grow in life and strength and hope, until the world is still an instant and forgets all that the dream of sin had made of it.

Let us go out and meet the newborn world, knowing that Christ has been reborn in it, and that the holiness of this rebirth will last forever. We had lost our way but He has found it for us. Let us go and bid Him welcome Who returns to us to celebrate salvation and the end of all we thought we made. The morning star of this new day looks on a different world where God is welcomed and His Son with Him. We who complete Him offer thanks to Him, as He gives thanks to us. The Son is still, and in the quiet God has given him enters his home and is at peace at last.

The final message is the epilogue from the Teachers Manual of Jesus Christ of Nazareth in the particulars of his return from outside of time, in the certainty that you have now assumed the role of salvation within your own mind. We had been on journey together, hadn't we? And you, right there, had been representing yourself as somehow separate from the idea that we are journeying beyond the stars. We have stopped for a moment in the idea of space/time. We have increased the frequency of the immediacy of [our] complete ability to communicate with what's out there, so that we have become a present dream in the sharing of Eternal Life.

I want to thank you within all of the ideas of self-containment that have represented our mutual intent to find the solution to loving one another because the inevitability of it has occurred in you, and now from this moment on will represent everything that you see out in the pictures of you contained within the entirety of your memory that represent the love that we're sharing for each other. Here is a very beautiful light reflection of the reading from Jesus in regard to your Teachers Manual, in our certainty you have assumed the role of a Teacher of God, and from this moment on will represent only the truth of what we are together as we leave the solution of pain and death that previously represented a moment of a dream of separation that now has disappeared in its entirety of the light of the universe. How very beautiful you look in that reflection. Thank you. There is no way I can express to you the gratitude for what has just occurred as we melt together in that re-formulation.

We've been certain that God has gone with us wherever we have gone, and that truth and love has always abided with us as we say once and for all, in the finality of this teaching, God bless us, each and everyone. Perhaps we'll meet again, but now with a new vision. Or each moment we can play our part in the certainty we can journey beyond the stars.
